No. 3

We devote this issue of the Record to our men and women in the war because of the great interest of Mount Allison people in general in the contribution of their college to the cause which we support. No matter how comprehensive or how circumscribed may be the control of a college, its duties are nation wide and its value is in direct ratio to its service to the state. That service is rendered through its students both in peace and in war, in the contribution which they make toward the shaping of the ideals of its peoples. That in this way Mount Allison has done her part, the names of her sons and daughters prominent in every walk of life bears ample testimony. Today, in more concrete and visible way her sons and daughters, moved by the call of duty have gone forth to serve the nation even unto death and by their service they have honored not only themselves but their college as well.

The following clipping from the Vancouver News Advertiser by “Lucian” who by the way is S. D. Scott, ’90, LL. D., ’13 the Editor of that paper, fittingly bridges the past and the present.

“Lucian,” in an article on the late Sir P. W. Borden, says:

Among the militia officers of the early days of Sir Fred’s ministry was his only son, Lieut. Harold Borden, B. A., a medical student of McGill when the Boer war began. My mind goes back to a gathering in a public hall with a group of volunteers marshalled on the platform. These were days when a party of thirty or forty was considered a fair war contribution for a city. Lieut. Borden was in charge, a tall, strong youth who looked his part. In answer to many speeches, about all he said was that he would not send any of his men where he would not go himself. As a...
Even at the expense of a good deal of space we are publishing the names of all those men and women whom we know to be in the Army in one service or another, with their addresses as known to us. A perusal of the list will show that the addresses of some are still unknown to us, and we shall be greatly obliged if any of our readers will furnish us with this information. We may, too, have included some who have not enlisted, that fact we would like to know. And most especially are we anxious to hear of new names which we can add to the list. Mount Allison's contributions to the war will in the future be part of her precious traditions and we urge our readers, to send us the names of all former students of the University, Academy or Ladies College who are serving today, whose names are not in this list, with as full information as possible concerning their Army history.

About three hundred and forty men so far are listed with nine names. In addition to these twenty men are known to have been rejected making a total of about two hundred and seventy who have offered their services for King and Country. This is no mean contribution and as far as our information goes it is a proportion not excelled by any college in Canada.

Of undergraduate who have enlisted the proportion is large. Of the male students of 1915-16 almost exactly seventy per cent are now in the army. Today we have less than sixty men enrolled and of these the great majority are freshmen. Of the number only twenty-four are nineteen years of age or older and of these probably not one half are physically fit for service.

If only one year is found after a name it signifies that the man graduated from the University in that year. If here for a term of years without graduation, the dates are given. In put after men who have been at the Academy but not at the Univ. An omission of dates intimates that they are unknown.

VOL. 1
SACKVILLE, N. B., MARCH, 1917
NO. 4

We are glad to report that about one hundred subscriptions have been received since the Jan. issue of the Record. We are grateful for these and for the many words of commendation which accompanied the remittances, showing as they do a keen interest in the work we are undertaking and an appreciation of its value. But we are not content with the results obtained; that condition of mind will be ours only when we have received one thousand subscriptions. In this issue we are sending you an addressed envelope and an enclosure which is self explanatory. If you send one dollar we will credit you with a subscription for four years. That will, we believe, appeal to many. But you need not be limited to one dollar—any amount from twenty five cents up will be credited to your account. Subscribe now and thereby actively support your Alma Mater.

We are forced by the limited space in one issue of the Record to make the March issue a War Special as well as the February number, if we are to give to our readers the information concerning our men at the Front which we believe will be of interest to them. The list of men grows daily. Who would think that out of two hundred and forty enlisted men this College would send into the Army, in officers alone five Colonels, two of them Brigadiers, fourteen Majors, forty seven Captains and sixty five Lieutenants? He who knows anything of the technical knowledge that an officer, especially of the higher ranks must possess, will not cease to marvel at these figures. It is a justification of the existence of the College that its sons are the men who most readily master the arts of war.

So it is with the Non-Commissioned Officers. Most of our men who are not Officers are of this class, the men who in every army constitute its backbone. And as we look over the list we see them as the youngsters of yesterday. And youngsters, often, they are compared with the men they lead. Those qualities of leadership which place them in command of others, the College must have cultivated else all the signs are false. And those who still are privates have remained so by choice, or need but the opportunity to show the same qualities as their friends. Truly the war has brought the Colleges of the country into their own.
