MR SYDNEY D. SCOTT, '08-'10

The Gold Stripe, a magazine published in Vancouver in the interest of men wounded in the war, contains a long and interesting article by Sydney Scott on La Libre Belgique—clandestine. This is the patriotic paper which, to the chagrin of the Germans, was published and distributed among the Belgians during the German occupation of the country. It ran, according to Mr. Scott's article, to 171 numbers. After the Armistice, Mr. Scott was stationed in the neighborhood of Brussels and made the acquaintance of a number of the people who were mainly interested in keeping the paper going. M. Jourdain, the founder, he didn't see, who old and wearied, died just before the end of the war, but with his widow who had shared his husband's activities and dangers, he had several interviews. He also had the privilege of examining the complete file of the paper and was presented with one copy as a souvenir. Facsimile of the outside page of this number is given in the magazine. From it we see that the paper was announced as the "Bulletin of patriotic propaganda to appear regularly irregular." The price of each number was "elastic, from zero to infinity," and those who resold it were asked not to pass this limit. The telegraphic address was humorously given as the "Kommandantur, Brussels." Brand Whitlock in his book on Belgium refers to this paper and the interest it created. It found its way occasionally into his letter-box and was said always to be in the mail of von Biasing, the Governor. He tried in every way to ferret out who was responsible for it and arrests were made, but the work went on. No one then knew just how it was printed or edited the little paper. Mr. Scott's article throws light on these former secrecy and gives interesting details of the experiences of the patriots who defied German authority and oppression.

Mount Allison Record

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY THE
MOUNT ALLISON ALUMNI AND ALUMNAE SOCIETIES
SUBSCRIPTION PRICE 25 CENTS PER YEAR

VOL. IV. SACKVILLE, N.B., JAN. & FEB., 1920 NO. 4

With this issue we are adding a large number of names of Mount Allison men and women to the mailing list of The Record. Our aim has always been to reach as large a number of old students as possible, and at the same time keep the subscription price at a low figure, in the hope that the subscriptions received would supplement the gifts from the Alumni and Alumnae Societies to an extent sufficient to meet the expenses. The experience of the past two years seems to suggest that this hope will be realized. We are hopeful that those who receive the Record for the first time will find something of interest in it as the months go by, and will give it their financial support. One dollar will pay a subscription for four years.

For a year Mount Allison undergraduates have had in mind a Grand Reunion of old students at the commencement exercises in May, 1920. The movement had its inception in the minds of present-day students and they have done and are doing the necessary work in connection with its successful accomplishment. The matter has, however, been discussed with the authorities who have given it their hearty support and the Board of Regents has voted to supply a certain amount of money in aid of the object. Some months ago a letter was sent out to as many old students as could be reached asking for suggestions and for opinions in respect to the Reunion and the replies indicated a very general approval of the scheme. It would seem that the men who had been overseas could better attend a Reunion in 1929 than at a later date when they would be more widely scattered. Recently a letter has been sent to all those whose addresses were available. We print below a copy of this letter.

We are printing in this issue a statement by Dr. Borden on Mount Allison and the Forward Movement. The financial objective having already been reached it is assured that Mount Allison will benefit greatly by the apportionment of the funds. It, as seems probable, the objective be largely over-subscribed we have every reason to hope that a fair portion of the excess will come to Mount Allison as well.

We would draw the attention of our readers to the class letter of Professor R. C. Archibald, of Brown University, Providence R. I., president of the class of '94 which appears below. We last year noted the generous gift of his class to the Loyalty Fund of $100 per year for five years in celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary. Dr. Archibald was the energetic organizer of his class in this project and his classmates have generously responded to his appeal. It is a fine contribution to the Loyalty Fund and will, no doubt, be followed by contributions from other classes. Such a fund is of the greatest value to the University. Given usually without conditions attached as to its use, it constitutes a mobile fund which can, if necessary, be used for special purposes for which there is no endowment. Such special needs are common to all Universities. Generally, of course, it is used to supplement the income from endowment and to meet current expenses.

MOUNT ALLISON AND THE FORWARD MOVEMENT

Now that the Methodist National Campaign is over and the objectives sought have been more than obtained, the readers of the Record are doubtless interested in the relation Mount Allison sustains to the $750,000 allocated to educational purposes. This particular item of the four financial objectives was decided upon in a meeting of the Board of Education of the Methodist Church at which the fact appeared that the operations of many of the Colleges working under the auspices of the Board were seriously embarrassed by debt. Among them it appeared that Mount Allison was carrying debts to the amount of $15,000.00. Emphasis was placed upon the importance of the contributions our Colleges are making to our national development. It was felt that if we were to have intelligent, patriotic and Christian leadership in these times of economic stress and upheaval our Colleges must not be handicapped in their great work. It is a fortunate thing for the Christian Churches of Canada that they have in them men of broad outlook and great executive ability. The attempt of the five great Protestant Churches of Canada to raise $12,000,000 and their entering upon a comprehensive programme for the quickening of their spiritual life is in entire keeping with the broad spirit of internationalism, characteristic of our times.

Should the movement result in any large advance over the $4,000,000.00 asked for when the Campaign started, it is felt very generally that the educational interests of the Church should share largely in the general advance. In fact it would seem as though the people who are contributing to the fund would expect that any surplus over and above the original objective should be divided proportionately among the interests to which their money was paid. Any other allocation of the excess would seem to be a misappropriation of their contributions. Especially should the Missionary Board of the Church, to whose initiative the movement was in a large measure due, recognize the value of our educational interests in the carrying out of their great programme.

The Church is in danger of finding itself lacking the man power to effectively administer the large funds that are likely to be placed at its disposal. After all, under the blessing of God, it is men and not money that are to carry the blessings of our Christianity to all parts of the world. It is equally true that the men who teach are the forces that make the College, rather than the funds that pay their salaries. At the same time the principle holds that if men of the right calibre are to be attracted to our professorships and our mission fields they must have adequate support.

When due consideration is given to the great contribution Mount Allison has made to the intellectual, social and religious welfare of our country there should be a disposition to treat in a generous spirit the one Methodist University in the whole Empire that gives the degree of Bachelor of Arts. The aggressive and self-conscious west should recognize the contribution Mount Allison is making to the intellectual and spiritual development of the settlers of our prairies. Hundreds of Mount Allison students are to be found scattered between Montreal and the Pacific who are contributing daily of their treasures of heart and brain to the solution of the economic and social problems of our great nation.

In deference to the request of the leaders of the National Campaign the Mount Allison Board of Regents stopped in the midst of a canvass for a Memorial Library and it seems that adequate compensation should be allowed for the loss they have sustained in giving up a campaign which had in it such promise of success, and that not a part but the entire debt that has been throttling the activities of the College for so many years should be liquidated.

REUNION LETTER

The Reunion committee has sent out the following letter to all former students of the University whose addresses were obtainable.

"Last April a circular letter was sent to those former Mt. A. students, whose addresses we then had, asking them whether they thought feasible a Reunion of Mt. Allison Students—including as many "returned" men as possible—and, if so, requesting them to submit any suggestions with regard to the carrying out of this proposed scheme. To these letters we received many favorable replies containing valuable suggestions and, with the knowledge that the old students were backing us, a Reunion Committee was appointed from the Student Body which, along with a similar Committee from the Faculty, is now busy securing the addresses of former students and drafting the necessary plans.

The Committee has fixed the dates for Reunion as May 17th, 18th, 19th. The object of this letter is to ask you to use every effort to be with us. None of the events on any of these days can fail to interest you, and above all, we desire that you should be present on the 19th, which is, strictly, a Reunion Day. On that day in addition to the University Convocation, the Alumni Banquet and a Reunion gathering to be addressed by some of our Graduates, we are planning to have as many Class Reunion meetings as possible and we hope that you will be there to give the old Class yell and meet again with classmates who have scattered widely since you last to-gather frequented the campus and the class-room.

We do not expect you now to say whether you can be with us or not but we should greatly appreciate any opinion you may express regarding our plans. Later we shall send you a definite invitation.

To make this Reunion as successful as it should be made we need your presence and co-operation. Think it over.”

MOUNT ALLISON IN BERMUDA

A correction is due our readers of an error that crept into our last communication, in which it was stated that Wyman Doe had gone overseas with a Bermuda contingent when we should have stated that it was his brother Evelyn Doe who enlisted. The name of Lieut. Bernard Wilkinson should also have been mentioned among the Mount Allison men who had rendered good service at the front.

Among the Mount Allison business men who have achieved success may be mentioned the names of A. W. Black and his brother John Black. Mr. A. W. Black was a member last year of the parliamentary commission sent to England to negotiate with the British Government for the purpose of securing a steamship service for Bermuda. He was also a member of the commission that was appointed by the Colonial Government to negotiate closer trade relations with Canada. For a number of years he has been Mayor of Hamilton and a member of the Colonial Parliament.

Among the more recent Mount Allison graduates whose College career has given promise of a brilliant future is Mr. George Whitney.

Mrs. W. T. Jemies, who has been for many years so influential in the social life of Bermuda was in former days a member of the staff of the Mount Allison Ladies’ College. She is still living in Bermuda in her beautiful home at Bellevue, one of the most delightful homes on the Island.

To this list may be added the names of the following ladies who were former students at the Ladies’ College:—Mrs. John Fowell (Minnie Black), Mrs. Walter Perinche (Kate Norton), Mrs. John Black (Maria Tucker), Mrs. E. Freestone (Gwendolyn Boyle), Mrs. James Kempe (Mabel Harrett), Mrs. R. D. Whitter (Susan Hughes), Miss Una Lusher. The names of many former Mount Allison students who are not now resident in Bermuda might be mentioned.

'04 CLASS LETTER

Brown University, Providence, R. I.

Washington’s Birthday

February 26, 1920

My Dear Classmates:—

Greetings to all. It was indeed good once more to get into personal touch with you. I enclose a revised list of addresses which were correct in May, 1919. In my last list I had Hattie (McMahon) Armstrong living at Ayerstoft, N. S. Henry Indoe wrote me that she had died—making with Laura Morehouse the second break in our class.

No one at Mount Allison had heard of her death. The following particulars came later (June, 1919): “After her mother’s death she lived alone (her husband having died), and was found dead in her house by her brother some four or five years ago.”

You will want to know something of one another.

Our sincere sympathy will go out to Henry Indoe who was incapacitated from further service (about a year ago) while on the circuit at Centre Burlington, Hants County, N. S. He moved to Sackville, N. B. But he was still far from well when he (and Mrs. Indoe and their adopted child) left on February 4, to visit his old home in England.

Woford Ryan had, with others, hoped that we might have planned a reunion at Mount Allison on the twentieth anniversary of our graduation, but this did not seem feasible for any large number. Last month he received an invitation to take charge of the Sackville circuit next year.

Spicer Gregg reported that two of his three children are now in their teens and prospective Mount Allison students.

Charlc Crowell still exudes good cheer from every pore. He wrote in part:—“I wonder if you have been getting all my communications of congratulation and gratitude. What is the matter with Uncle Sam’s Postal Service anyway; and where do you live? Do the old gentleman’s mails penetrate the bush far enough to reach your isolation? Still an old Bach! For shame, I know scores of girls that would make any good man a wife, i.e. each would. You must be mathematically, musically, matrimonially unbalanced. The pleasures you have enjoyed are only excelled by the pleasures you have missed.”

Billy Parlee, who is in newspaper work, wrote on May 11, 1919 as follows: My dear old mother has just passed through her last illness and gone to her eternal reward. I have a wife, a lovely little boy of five years, and a happy home. If you have Billy Selier’s address would you mind sending it to me?”

A letter from Stanley Outhouse is almost as interesting as a conversation with him. He is a country physician and often worked to the limit—and beyond. “Twenty-five years is a long time, isn’t it? I was only nineteen when I left Sackville and now thinking back makes me feel like an old man. I had completely forgotten some of our classmates until I saw their names at the bottom of your circular. I haven’t heard of one of them hardly since 1905 and of course cannot place those who have taken new names.

“My ties to the Provinces have been completely severed. I have no one down there now at all, although old ’Put’ Morrow has been after me once or twice to go down to Sackville for "Closing". Now Raymond, I live right on the well known "Mohawk Trail" so if ever you go motoring this way would be very pleased to see you. My beau-pere makes daddies for a pastime so you might be interested.”

John Webb is president and treasurer of the Mount Carroll Electric Light Co. in Mt. Carroll, Illinois, where he has been for the past fifteen years. You will remember that he married Annie Bigney (Mt. A. ’89). The picture they sent me of their beautiful little seven-year old Doris makes me very envious.

Nettie Thomas is again at Mount Allison inspiring the little folk and young people with her good cheer, her courage, and her high idealism. There is surely no other place where there is greater opportunity for a teacher to make a lasting contribution to the promotion of the welfare of the world. Edgar Wood as principal of the Territorial Normal and Training School in Honolulu is directing a great work. He wrote: "I have been in Honolulu for twenty-three years. I took charge of the Normal School when it was just beginning and have been with it ever since. I began with about twenty pupils and one assistant and now there are 995 pupils and 53 teachers. We prepare teachers for the schools of the Territory. There are two courses, one of four years and one of one year for High School graduates. "I am, as you know, married and as a result my hair is still black. Hawaii is a delightful place. There is always a balmy breeze and flowers are always blooming."

Our class secretary Hallie Olive wrote in part as follows: "We have been living on Lake Chelan for six years! We think it is the most beautiful place in the world, the blue ribbon of the Lake winding among high cliffs; beyond the snow capped mountains; and along the Lake miles of orchard and wheat and alfalfa fields. Our ranch is in the middle of an orchard project of about four thousand acres. Besides apples we raise alfalfa and corn and have enough cows and horses and pigs and chickens to make it a real farm home. Everything grows here, wonderful cherries and peaches. The summers are hot, but because of the Lake and mountains always cool at night; the winters delightful, with sleighing and skating, but no storms. Almost continual sunshine the year round."

With Hallie Olive's family four more are to be counted among our class children: two boys of fifteen and eight years respectively and two girls of twelve and ten. The picture of all four of them on a pony's back, and of Doris, are on the desk in my office where I write. For in contemplation of them, the treasures of his dear friends, the "old bach" finds much pleasure.

And as to myself, there is little new to report. I taught an advanced course here for nine weeks last summer, attended mathematical meetings at Ann Arbor, Mich., and then went on to Saskatoon, via Chicago, for a couple of weeks with relatives. I am still editor-in-chief of the American Mathematical Monthly and an editor of the Bulletin of the American Mathematical Society. I have just been appointed (1) an editor of the Revue Sessiendes Publications Mathématiques published in Amsterdam, Holland, and (2) a reader of the College Entrance Board Examination Papers at New York next June. I am also chairman of a committee which is seeking to raise about six hundred thousand dollars for the development of various great mathematical undertakings on this continent.

It is now opportune for me to make to you a report concerning our pledge to give one hundred dollars a year for five years to the Mount Allison Loyalty Fund. In addition to this six more members of our class joined the Alumni Society. Our movement caused great enthusiasm, and other classes are sure to follow our example in years to come. May I ask that you now send me your pledges to the end of 1929—both Loyalty Fund and Alumni Society dues?

I should be glad to learn of your personal experience of the year and of the plans you are developing in your work.

With warm personal regards I am, as ever,

Yours faithfully,
R. C. ARCHIBALD
President of the Class 1894

HOCKEY
The hockey team like the football team of last fall has had an unsuccessful season. Greatly handicapped by the disqualification of several of the best players it was beaten by the University of New Brunswick in Sackville by the score of 7-2 and in Fredericton by the score of 8-2. The team played ed Acadia in Wolfville and was beaten 11-0. When Acadia played in Sackville Mount Allison defatuated the game played under the Intercollegiate regulations, there being no chance of a win, and with the consent of the Acadia team played the best team available without regard to the regulations. The game resulted in a tie 2-2. Acadia was defeated by U. N. B. at Wolfville but won in Fredericton thus requiring a play-off. The game was played in Moncton and resulted in an easy win for Acadia 7—1, this making Acadia the winner of the league.

The Intercollegiate regulations adopted in 1915 and first put into operation last year prevented three or four of the players on our last year's team, which won the league, from competing again this year.

GEORGE J. TRUeman, '02, Ph. D.
'19 COLUMBIA
Mr. Trueeman has recently received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Columbia after three years work, one of which was spent abroad in special study. His thesis was on the subject of "School Funds in the Province of Quebec," Dr. Trueeman for some years has been the very efficient principal of Stanstead College, Stanstead, Quebec, a school which in addition to doing the work of a preparatory school does some work of college grade. During the past Dr. Trueeman has had a considerable number of Mount Allison teachers on his staff. At the present time Miss Elize McPadden '16 is instructor in classics, Miss Violet Knapp, '05 in Domestic Science and, until Christmas, Miss Helen G. Ford was head of the department of Expressions and Physical Culture.
GLADYS VAUGHAN ‘10

A letter has just been received in Sackville from Mrs. C. Vaughan which describes the work, her daughter, Miss Gladys Vaughan is doing in Warsaw with the American Red Cross Commission to Poland. The letter follows:

"In regard to Gladys, she is with the American Commission to Poland as one of its Bacteriologist and does laboratory work making vaccine, diagnosing, etc. They have their laboratory at the University of Warsaw and they have been there since the last of October. The Polish government requisitioned a Princess’ palace for the Commission and that is where they live. They also have a palace at Lublin and Gladys was there for a few days while on one trip she was making. The first of February, the last I heard from her, she expected to go to the ancient capital of Poland, Wilna, to help establish a modern hospital of two hundred and fifty beds with extension to one thousand, and she may have been on the way when I heard from her at Lublin. During the month of December besides working a record month in vaccine, she was engaged in special Christmas work, and they carried Christmas cheer to five hundred ‘Typhus Boys,’ (Americans stationed all over Poland to prevent Typhus entering from the East) twenty two thousand orphans, and thirteen thousand sick and wounded Polish soldiers. When they first went to Poland she was at a Military Hospital in Brzostoff and then a number of the Americans went back there for Thanksgiving. She wrote that the Bolshevik prisoners were dying at the rate of thirty each day, that it was very cold, and these bodies were piled up outside frozen stiff and that they looked like cord-wood. Then in the night they would take them away and bury them in one grave. They could not take care of the sick Polish soldiers, so that was all they could do with the prisoners."

BRIEF ADDRESS OF DR. BORDEN AT A RECENT CHAPEL SERVICE

Incorriginly Honest

When the Hon. Hugh Cecil, himself a stalwart conservative, endorsed the candidacy of Mr. Asquith, the great liberal leader in the recent Paisley election, all England wondered that such a keen politician should subordinate the interests of his party to what he considered the general good. Someone has recalled the quaint saying of Charles Lamb that one of Hugh Cecil’s ancestors was “incorrigibly and disarmingly honest.” So long as the old mother land is able to produce statesmen who are bigger than party so long will she be worthy of the title history has given her “The Mother of Parliaments.” It is men of this type who are needed in the political life of our own Canada. It is men and women of this brand we are ambitious to produce at Mount Allison. These hand-picked men of our denominational colleges who carry into the public life of our country the impress of clear conviction and earnest living are the greatest asset of the nation. Hugh Cecil’s act in helping a political opponent may contribute to the wrecking of his own party, as the recent trenchant criticisms of Mr. Asquith would foreshadow. Honesty, however, is never found to be disastrous when the longer view is taken. It is dishonesty, the lack of downright “inccorrigible” integrity that destroys careers by the million. The man who “swears to his own hurt” is the man always who makes the enduring gain. The gain may not be always in dollars and cents, but in the qualities of heart and soul that make him “rich towards God.”

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATES

Mount Allison vs. Acadia

The Mount Allison girls were defeated 1257 points to 855 in Fawcett Hall on March 9th by the girls from Acadia in a debate on the subject, “Resolved that a legislative union of the Maritime Provinces, on terms alike equitable and agreeable, would be advantageous”. The debate was carefully prepared, well thought out and well presented by both sides. It is the second intercollegiate debate between College women in the Maritime Provinces.

Mount Allison vs. St. Francis Xavier

Mount Allison again suffered defeat on March 18th when the St. Francis Xavier men defeated us on the sub-
